

Friends of the Library

6 Ideas and concepts change overnight, student generations pass through with astonishing rapidity, courses become outdated, equipment obsolete, professors become emeriti and new buildings grow old and need replacement... but collections of books remain. They are never discarded, but are constantly enriched as the years pass and constitute the one abiding physical reality of what we term "McGill". Libraries conserve the knowledge and wisdom of mankind, and their price is beyond rubies. 9

The McGill Libraries need to be able to plan ahead, to develop and to maintain acquisitions at a dependable level. It is only through private support provided by the Friends of the Library that the library system can hope to meet the many needs of the university community.

We invite you to become a Friend of the Library. Cheques should be made payable to McGill University, Friends of the Library.
